INTRODUCTION

Female genital mutilation (FGM), sometimes called “female cutting” or “female circumcision,” is described by the World Health Organization (WHO) as comprising “all procedures that involve partial or total removal of the external female genitals, or other injury to the female genital organs for non-medical reasons.”

FGM is sometimes called "female circumcision." FGM is not the same as male circumcision. The practice has no health benefits and can lead to a range of physical and mental health problems. The reasons given for performing FGM encompass beliefs about health, women’s sexuality, and community and adulthood initiation rites.¹

FGM is against the law in the United States.

Arkansas Act 556 of 2019

Act 556 of 2019 was enacted to prohibit unlawful female genital mutilation (FGM) of a minor. The Act:

- Defined the criminal offense for committing unlawful FGM of a minor
- Amended the Child Maltreatment Act to include unlawful FGM of a minor as a definition of abuse
- Provided a civil cause of action for victims of unlawful FGM of a minor
- Added unlawful FGM of a minor by a medical professional to the Arkansas Medical Practices Act and authorized state medical professional licensing entities to institute disciplinary actions against licensed medical professionals who are convicted of committing unlawful FGM of a minor
- Established an awareness program administered by the Arkansas Department of Health (ADH)
- Required ADH to compile an annual report of any incidents of unlawful FGM reported by health practitioners in each county in Arkansas

¹ For more information about female genital mutilation, including links to scientific studies and other resources, refer to the ADH fact sheet on female genital mutilation available here: https://www.healthy.arkansas.gov/images/uploads/pdf/FGM_FACT_SHEET_FINAL_1-15-2020.pdf.

AWARENESS PROGRAM

The Arkansas Department of Health partnered with the Arkansas Division of Elementary and Secondary Education, Arkansas Department of Human Services, Arkansas Association of Chiefs of Police, Arkansas Sheriffs' Association, Arkansas State Police, Arkansas Nursing Board, and the Arkansas Medical Board to develop strategies to increase awareness of unlawful female genital mutilation (FGM) of minors, prevent unlawful FGM, protect and provide assistance to victims of unlawful FGM, and to ensure awareness and compliance with the criminal penalties for committing unlawful FGM.

In 2019-2020, these activities included:

- Arkansas Department of Health (ADH) published reproducible fact sheets and a PowerPoint slide presentation to help educators, law enforcement officials, and the general public increase their knowledge regarding unlawful female genital mutilation of a minor.
 - ❖ This material addresses:
 - What it is
 - Health effects
 - Risk factors
 - Signs that an individual may be a victim
 - Criminal penalties
 - How to report suspected maltreatment
 - ❖ The PowerPoint slides and Fact sheets are available on the ADH website and have been distributed to: all superintendents in the 135 schools districts across the state, all Arkansas sheriffs, all Arkansas Chiefs of Police, and all operators and supervisors of the Crimes Against Children Division of the Arkansas State Police.

- Arkansas Department of Health (ADH) published a reproducible fact sheet, a PowerPoint presentation, and a reproducible guide to best practices to help healthcare practitioners increase their knowledge regarding unlawful female genital mutilation of a minor, prevent unlawful FGM, and protect and provide assistance to victims of unlawful FGM.
 - ❖ This material addresses:
 - What it is
 - Health effects
 - Risk factors
 - Signs that an individual may be a victim
 - Criminal penalties
 - Mandatory reporting requirements
 - Best practices for responses to victims of FGM, including key recommendations for providing health services
 - ❖ The PowerPoint presentation slides, fact sheet, and guide to best practices are available on the ADH website and have been distributed to healthcare practitioners across the state via the Arkansas Medical Board, Arkansas Nursing Board, medical specialty associations in Arkansas, and all ADH healthcare professionals.

 - ADH Website Page with Information and Resources
<https://www.healthy.arkansas.gov/programs-services/topics/female-genital-mutilation>
 - ❖ The ADH's Center for Local Public Health developed a course for all ADH healthcare professionals to increase their knowledge regarding FGM and any civil cause of action related to violation of ACT 556 of 2019. The course was posted on Arkansas TRAIN and provided nurse continuing education units.

PREVALENCE OF UNLAWFUL FEMALE GENITAL MUTILATION OF MINORS IN ARKANSAS SFY 2020

Reporting Processes and Procedures

Act 556 of 2019 amended two codes sections that provide mandatory mechanisms for tracking the prevalence of unlawful female genital mutilation of minors in Arkansas:

- Arkansas Code § 12-18-103, concerning definitions related to child maltreatment, was amended to include female genital mutilation.
 - ❖ Under Arkansas Code § 12-18-402, all healthcare practitioners in Arkansas are “mandated reporters” of child maltreatment. Healthcare practitioners and all other mandated reporters must immediately notify the Arkansas Child Abuse Hotline established by the Arkansas Department of Human Services if he or she 1) has reasonable cause to suspect that a child has been subject to child maltreatment, or died as a result of child maltreatment or 2) observes a child being subject to conditions or circumstances that would reasonably result in child maltreatment.^{2,3}
 - ❖ In compliance with Act 556 of 2019, the Arkansas Department of Human Services (DHS) began tracking the cases of unlawful female genital mutilation reported to the Arkansas Child Abuse Hotline in December 2019. ADH and DHS formed a partnership to provide ADH with annual data on the number of incidents of unlawful female genital mutilation reported to the Arkansas Child Abuse Hotline. By tracking the number of incidents of FGM reported by healthcare practitioners through this robust mandatory reporting mechanism, ADH has access to the most comprehensive reporting data available in Arkansas, including not only healthcare practitioners, but the public and all mandatory reporters, such as law enforcement officials, child abuse advocates, clergy, and teachers.
- Arkansas Code § 17-80-121, within the Arkansas Medical Practices Act, was amended to include a provision that a state agency, board, or commission authorized to issue a license to a medical professional under the laws of this state shall institute disciplinary action against a licensed medical professional over whom the state agency, board, or commission has jurisdiction and who is convicted of unlawful female genital mutilation of a minor.

² The Arkansas Child Abuse Hotline Call Center is staffed by a team of specially trained personnel from the Crimes Against Children Division of Arkansas State Police. An investigation may ensue based upon reports which meet the criteria of state and federal laws.

³ Mandated reporters of child maltreatment can submit reports 24-hours a day, seven days a week by: 1) Calling toll-free phone numbers 1-844-SAVE-A-CHILD (1-844-728-3224) or 1-800-482-5964 or 2) Faxing a report to (501) 618-8952 using a telephone facsimile reporting template which can be found at:
